Description :

Prsentation de l'diteurSixty years ago, two atomic bombs fell on Japan, and the world was changed forever. Yet the two bombs were different as night and day, and so were their missions. This issue explores the development of the atomic bomb program and all its problems, then focuses on the first A-bomb mission, the one that devastated Hiroshima. Japanese-born Ted Nomura has been a war-history authority for decades, and his expertise culminates in this look at one of the most terrifying moments the world has ever faced.
