Description :

Prsentation de l'diteurHeavy rain falls on Lafferton. As the rain water slowly drains away, a shallow grave and a skeleton are revealed.It doesn't take long to identify the remains as those of missing teenager, Harriet Lowther, who was last seen sixteen years ago.But a cold case isn't a priority: if Detective Inspector Simon Serrailer is to solve the case, he will have to do it alone.Revue de presse"A page-turner" (Guardian)"Hugely enjoyable" (Daily Mail)"Hill can't write a bad sentence and her characters are all completely convincing - no more so than her long-serving detective Simon Serrailer" (Henry Sutton Daily Mirror)"Her intellectual stance is engaging, her plot unpredictable and her detective a likeable presence" (Hannah McGill Scotland on Sunday)"Far more than a whodunit...written with a novelist's flair, in that the characters, however fleeting, are carefully drawn and believable" (Leslie Geddes-Brown Country Life)Prsentation de l'diteurHeavy rain falls on Lafferton.
